

"ENVOY EXTRAORDINARY"

by E. PHILLIPS OPPENHEIM

CHAPTER XIII

The Earl of Bemrose continued to describe the activities of Lady Matresser's son.

"Perhaps I have said more than I ought to have done. Still, just before the Abyssinian war I do know that he was the first person sent for by the permanent Foreign Secretary, that he had appointments with Cabinet Ministers and that sort of thing for a fortnight and everyone considered his opinion extraordinarily valuable. Master Ronald does not go about the world with his eyes closed you know."

"You are giving me new ideas about my son," she acknowledged.

"I hope to heavens I am not making mischief," Bemrose exclaimed. "I am just telling you what I have heard said. On the other hand he has never shown the slightest signs of any ambition to take a governorship or anything of that sort so the whole thing seems to lead nowhere. That is why I am glad of your news that he is thinking of settling down. There are so few of the old order," he concluded with a sigh, "who can be expected to live on their estates as Matresser could. To tell you the honest truth I only kept on the County this last year because I was horrified when I heard who his successor was likely to be. If Ronald will play up it will be a great deal off my mind."

"Well, as I told you, I have almost a promise from him," Lady Matresser said.

"You will have to face his marriage of course," her neighbor reminded her.

"My dear Charles," she replied, "don't you know me well enough to realize that nothing in the world would make me happier than that? The Dover House here is a perfect gem of a place and I have refused to let it, except yearly just hoping that Ronnie would turn sensible. I should be the happiest woman in the world there."

The conversation halted for a few moments. The Countess neighbor on her other side leaned towards her.

"Lady Alice has been telling me of this shocking affair in the village," he said.

"I am so sorry for Dr. Andrews," Lady Matresser confided. "Of course everyone will say that he ought to have sent a man as ill as that to the hospital, certainly not to have left him alone with the housekeeper while he shot today. I dare say though there's some further explanation."

"I heard," Bemrose observed, "that he was supposed to be down here with letters for someone or other in the neighborhood."

"We have heard nothing," the Countess declared.

"Seems queer after our recent conversation," Bemrose went on, "but Grantley my second boy you know who is in the Foreign Office, had an idea that this man came from there. We must ask Matresser if he knows anything about it."

Old world habits were strictly observed in the Great House and a few minutes later a fluttering little concourse of women followed their hostess to the drawingrooms. Matresser left the place and came down to the other end of the table to where his principal male guests were seated. The port was reverently sipped.

"What happened to Andrews?" a neighbor asked his host.

"He was fetched away while we were shooting Sheddons Wood," Matresser replied. "The chap he picked up after an accident and to whom he played the good Samaritan had the bad taste to peg out."

"Such a careful fellow—Andrews," Bemrose remarked. "I wonder he came out at all if the man was in any danger."

"Concussion is a queer thing," Matresser reflected leaning forward and helping himself to nuts. "Is it my fancy Rowans," he went on, addressing a vis-a-vis, "or is this '70 getting a little thin? I always look upon you as a great connoisseur."

"It is one of the most perfect bot-ties of a marvelous vintage I ever tasted," was the emphatic reply.

"I find it wonderful," Bemrose acquiesced. "To go back to this poor fellow though, shouldn't you say that it was a little unusual Matresser for a man who has been properly vetted and left in the care of a very respectable woman like Andrews housekeeper an old nurse, too, she was—to die suddenly?"

"Unusual, I suppose," Matresser agreed, "but that sort of thing happens every day."

"Poor little Andrews is all fussed up about it anyway," Rowans observed. "He went off to Aylsham to see the coroner and then to Norwich to the hospital."

"I hadn't heard that," Matresser admitted with a distinct frown.

"One of your keepers told me. I went down into the gunroom before dinner to ask for my guns to be ready early as I have to get over to Hatherley Hall. That long chap who looks after your Merton beat had just got back from leaving the doctor some pheasants and heard the news from the housekeeper."

A mighty figure his wine glass in his hand rose from a distant place and approached the spot where his host was seated. With a stiff comprehensive bow he sank into a vacant place.

"You will perhaps pardon me if I join you," he said. "I was interested or should I say grieved to hear that one of my fellow victims of Monday night's storm was dead."

"Mr. van Westreene," Matresser explained to the others around, "brought a fifty-ton ketch into port in the midst of that storm the other night. Quite an achievement, but he and his men all got a little knocked about."

"I myself have recovered," van Westreene announced. "A slight sprain—not more. My steward, however, must go to the hospital. This poor fellow who has died was injured by a fallen tree, I heard it said."

"That is what we understand," Matresser agreed.

Held in Theft of $1,300,000 in Subway Nickels

Four suspects in the theft of at least $1,300,000 from the receipts of the New York municipally-owned subway line are booked. The prisoners, two at right and two at left, are separated by a detective reading a report. Eight station agents and maintenance men were arrested at once and a hunt for other suspects was instituted.

Bemrose leaned forward in his place. Like all the other guests he was intrigued by this tawny Viking.

"In what part of Holland do you live, Mr. van Westreene?" he asked. "I have shot there twice with my friend Baron de Buyl."

"I own property some forty miles from the de Buyl estates," was the measured reply. "I am, however, seldom there. I have interests in other countries. Only lately I returned from a seven months' cruise. I am fond of the sea."

"Do any deep sea fishing?"

"Off the coast of New Zealand," Mr. van Westreene recounted. "I have landed two tuna fish of between five and six hundred pounds each. It is a dangerous sport but it lacks variety."

"Tell us," Bemrose asked, "what then is your favorite sport, van Westreene?" You have shot lions without a doubt.

"And every description of wild beast," was the deep throated reply. "As to my favorite sport, you ask me a difficult question."

It was probably by chance just at that moment that he looked across the table straight into the eyes of his host. The hesitation became a pause. There was a little quiver at the corners of Matresser's lips.

"Perhaps," the latter said, "to answer that question Mr. van Westreene, you would require a definition of sport."

To all appearance, Mr. van Westreene remained the weather battered sphinx with unchanging expression. There was no sign of discomposure in his smooth face. His fixed eyeglass seemed as though it had been there since the day of his birth and would remain without a quiver until the day of his death. Even his deep voice when he answered retained its toneless quality.

"The end of all sport," he pronounced "as sport is understood by man, is to kill."

There was a little murmur of qualified dissent.

Cattleman On Stand In Paul Ford Trial

LISBON, Feb. 14.—George W. Minch, Belmont county cattle buyer, testified Monday afternoon he had paid Paul Ford of Lisbon, on trial here on a grand larceny charge, $10 for two cows, allegedly stolen from a Center township farmer.

Minch was one of several Belmont county residents placed on the stand Monday by the state. He said he stopped payment on the check when he became suspicious of the deal. Bert and John Eagen, also of Belmont county, corroborated his testimony.

Deputy Sheriff M. K. Duty, who arrested Ford following an investigation, described the manner in which he traced the stolen cattle. The officer said two of the animals were sold to Minch and the other two at a public auction.

The officer recovered three of the stolen cows and found the hide of the fourth. The state maintains the cows were "rustled" by Ford, assisted by Dale and John Holschue, Center township brothers. The Holschues were placed on probation following guilty pleas.

The court room was jammed Monday and today with farmers interested in the case.

Theatre Attractions

"Four Girls In White," showing Wednesday at the State theater, pays a tribute to the great profession of nursing.

The last showing of "Jesse James," exciting and colorful story of the famous outlaw, featuring Tyrone Power, Henry Fonda, Nancy Kelly and Randolph Scott, will be seen at the State tonight.

Five Principals

Featuring a cast of five principals, comprising Florence Rice, Una Merkel, Ann Rutherford, Mary Howard and Alan Marshall, with Kent Taylor, Buddy Ebsen and Jessie Ralph in support, "Four Girls In White" comes as a companion piece to the notable "Men In White" of several years ago, and the more recent "Young Dr. Kildare."

"Four Girls In White" is the story of four girls who enter upon nursing with four girls who enter upon nursing with different purposes. It treats mainly with Norma Page, played by Florence Rice, whose real purpose in embracing the noble calling is to win a rich doctor or patient for a husband. Unscrupulously she schemes to gain her end. When Dr. Stephen Melford, played by Alan Marshall, seems more interested in his work as a career than for money, Norma discards him and turns her attention to Robert Maitland, a rich playboy played by Kent Taylor.

Her scheming results in the death of a fellow nurse at the hands of an insane patient, and when she returns to the hospital from a yachting trip she finds herself shunned by fellow nurses. Before she can resign the dreaded "disaster call" comes in. Norma joins the other nurses and risks her life to return a heroine, with the respect of the girls and the love of Dr. Melford as a reward.

A double bill will be featured Wednesday at the Grand. The first film is a mystery tale, "The Last Warning," a Jonathan Latimer crime club thriller, with Preston Foster and Frank Jenks. Joyce Compton, E. E. Clive and Kay Linaker.

Foster and Jenks appear for the third time as Bill Crane and Doc Williams, super-sleuths who punctuate their expert detective work with wisecracks. Jonathan Latimer, popular author, whose stories, "The Westland Case" and "Lady in the Morgue," first presented the Foster-Jenks team and initiated the mystery screen series.

The second feature is a dramatic story of a doctor's fight to help ignorant, superstitious people in spite of their enmity. Jack Holt is seen in the role of the doctor in "The Strange Case of Dr. Meade," with Beverly Roberts, Noah Beery and John Qualen in supporting parts.

Boxcar Corrigan Lands A Long Way From Goal—Florida

PEABODY, Mass., Feb. 14.—Refreshed by sleep and food, Russell C. Donaldson, 15, the "boxcar Corrigan," prepared today to return to his Connellsville, Pa., home after a harrowing week in a locked freight car which he thought was carrying him from Ohio to sunny Florida.

Russell explained to Peabody police that he saw two cars in the freight yards at Uhrichsville, O., last Feb. 5—one billed for Florida, the other for Peabody. During the night he leaped aboard—the wrong car and went the wrong way.

For two days he had been too weak from lack of food and water to cry out and it was only by chance that a truck driver unsealed the car of drainage pipes last night.

In Connellsville, Russell's father, Charles E. Donaldson, chuckled over the escapade and said he would send anything necessary to get the boy home.

"He's a good boy, but he got mad when I wouldn't let him go to see his girl friend every night of the week and just left home."

The subordinate grange also met Tuesday evening. Two new members taken in at the meeting were Sam Trimm and Maurice Huff.

The Jolly Time club entertained at the home of Mrs. Clarence Sheller Thursday afternoon. A Valentine gift exchange for the members and children was featured. An oyster supper for the members and their families will be held at the home of Mrs. Perry Huffman Friday evening, March 3.

Horsemen To Meet In Salem Feb. 17

L. P. McCann, extension specialist of Ohio State university, will discuss "Breeding Principles as Applied to Horse Production" at a meeting of horsemen of Columbiana and Mahoning counties, to be held in the Memorial building in Salem at 1:30 p. m. Friday, Feb. 17.

Last Friday McCann discussed feeding and rations for horses at a similar meeting attended by a large number of horse owners and breeders.

DOCTORS WARN FOLKS WHO ARE CONSTIPATED

IT IS SAID constipation causes many human discomforts—headaches, lack of energy and mental dullness being but a few. BUT DON'T WORRY—

For years a noted Ohio Doctor, Dr. F. M. Edwards, successfully treated scores of patients for constipation with his famous Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—now sold by druggists everywhere.

Olive Tablets, being purely vegetable, are harmless. They not only gently yet thoroughly cleanse the bowels but ALSO assist liver bile flow to help digest fatty foods. Test their goodness TONIGHT without fail! 15c, 30c, 60c.

Robbery Quintet Faces Grand Jury

Robert Bonham of Youngstown, Francis E. Ruhl and Robert Mc-Caughin of Lisbon, three of five youths arrested last week by state highway patrolmen in connection with a series of holdups, have been bound over to the Mahoning county grand jury by Judge Mulholland.
Bonds were affixed at $5,000 and the trio held in jail in default of payment.

Frank Ieropoli and Clark E.
Maruca of Lisbon were given preliminary hearings in municipal court at Canton and were bound over to the Stark county grand jury.
Bonham, Ruhl and McCaughin
were involved in crimes in Youngstown while Ieropoli and Maruca admitted holdups at Canton and Massillon.

$100 Discovered In Slain Man's Cabin

CANTON, Feb. 14.—Five $20 bills were found today by an investigator in a hole bored in the bottom of a hat rack in the living room-bedroom of Wayne Mullett, 68-year-old recluse who was murdered Thursday morning.
Discovery of the money gave strength to the theory that Mullett may have been murdered by someone who knew he kept hidden cash
in the two-room cabin, seven miles east of there, where he was found dying from a blow on the head.
Still missing is a black billfold,
in which the victim's sister, Mrs.
Della Hardy of Massillon, said,
the hernis was in the habit of carrying large sums of money.

URGE WESTERN APPOINTMENT

Senate Calls On Roosevelt As Brandeis Re- signs Post

ther he intends to listen to senatorial recommendations. The appointment will be the President's fourth to the court.
Western senators are certain to look askance at any appointee who does not come from their region,
and were quick to suggest candidates.

Recommendations Ready

Senators Adams and Johnson, Colorado Democrats, declared their support of Federal Judge Sam
Bratton of New Mexico. Senator Connally (D-Tex.) said he would recommend Federal Circuit Judge Joseph C. Hutcheson, Jr. of Texas, but added that Bratton "would be fine."

Senator Gillette (D-Iowa) advocated appointment of Dean Wiley Rutledge of the University of Iowa law school, who was reported to have been under consideration when Felix Frankfurter recently was selected to succeed the late Justice Cardozo.

Another name prominently mentioned was that of Justice Harold Stephens of the District of Columbia court of appeals. Stephens is a resident of Utah.

Administration senators said the president has been swayed in considering the last appointment by arguments for sectional representation, but had decided to appoint Frankfurter, a Harvard law professor, on the advice of senator
Norris (Ind.-Neb.)

There was some mention of Senators Schwellenbach (D-Wash.)
and Minton (D-Ind.), both administration supporters, but neither had any comment.

Judge Allen's Name Herd

Should the President again ignore sectional demands, there were rumors that he might consider Federal Judge Florence E. Allen of Ohio; Samuel Roseman and Ferdinand Pecora, New York supreme court justices; Atty. Gen. Frank Murphy; Solicitor General Robert J. Jackson, and James M. Landis, dean of the Harvard law school.

There was speculation whether Justice James C. McReynolds, 77-year-old dean of the court, might follow Brandeis into retirement.
Some friends, however, predicted
he would serve until after the 1940 presidential election.

Under a law enacted two years ago, a justice who has served ten years can retire after the age of 70 on his full pay of $20,000 a year.
Brandeis gave no reason for his retirement, but it was assumed he had been motivated by advancing age and recent ill health. He has been intensely interested in the Zionist movement to establish a homeland for the Jews in Palestine, and presumably will devote much of his time to Jewish problems.

Medical Insurance Plan Outlined For Council's Approval

TOLEDO, Feb. 14.—A committee of the Ohio State Medical association made public today details of a state-wide medical insurance program to be submitted to the organization's governing council for approval.

The plan would set up district
societies to provide medical care
on an insurance basis, each society fixing its own premium rates. Subscribers would be permitted to choose their physicians and the latter's bills for services would be sent to the society for payment instead of the patient. Each month's settlement would be final—cooperating physicians paid either in full or on a pro rata basis depending on the amount paid in by the subscriber.

The service would include home
calls and office and hospital treatment but during the first year only emergency operations would be financed. The state medical association is an affiliate of the American Medical association.

Delegates Elected By Beloit P-T. A.

BELOIT, Feb. 14.—Delegates were elected at the Beloit Parent-Teacher association meeting Monday night to attend the northeastern Ohio district conference at Ashtabula Friday, Feb. 24. The Beloit organization will receive its charter
at that time.
The program last night, presided over by Mrs. Harold Scott, president, included a one-act play,
"When Mothers Meet"; a reading
by Mrs. Nellie Boster, and music by the High school orchestra. A lunch was served.

G. O. P. FILLED WITH OPTIMISM

Series of Lincoln Day Ap- peals Oppose Roosevelt Administration

occupied by District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey of New York, the unsuccessful gubernatorial candidate of last year.

Although not glancing in Dewey's direction, the former president interpolated in his prepared address,
after saluting "the rise of youth
in our party," this unamplified remark.

"Their qualities have already made an impression on the country," Dewey was introduced to the gathering, but did not speak.

The Hoover address was delivered amid general predictions of others who shared the platform with him that the Republicans would win the presidency in 1940; and stretched behind him was a great banner reading: "1940 victory,
through unity."

Cites "True Liberalism"

Much of his talk he devoted to developing the assertion that the Republican party was the party of "true liberalism." From this he went on to say that it was his own Republican administration which, in 1930, was "the first to announce the national obligation
that no American through no fault of his own should go hungry or cold, and first to organize nationwide relief for the unemployed."

12 Chinchillas---$20,000, Are Assets of Ohio Farm

Bucyrus Couple Have One of The Three Chinchilla Farms East of The Mississippi

(By Associated Press)

BUCYRUS, Feb. 14.—Mr. and Mrs. Poyd Sawyer possess only 12 chinchillas, but their assets "on the hoof" in the breeding of the rare South American fur-bearers are estimated at $20,000.

Each grown chinchilla is worth about $1,600, Sawyer says, and with their weight averaging 20 ounces, that means the little aliens are worth $80 an ounce.

The Sawyers have one of the three chinchilla "farms" east of the Mississippi. They are expecting several litters to increase their stock in a few weeks. There are usually two baby chinchillas at each birth, although occasionally
there are four.

More Valuable Than Ever

The animals just now are more valuable than ever before, Sawyer says, because ruthless trapping practices and the introduction of unnatural predatory creatures into South America almost extinguished
the species.

The last threat to their existence was introduction of the English red fox into the chinchilla's native Andes mountain region.
Today there are only some 23
chinchilla coats in the world, Sawyer says, and all were made from pelts saved in the past years. Each coat is valued at about $80,000. A few chinchilla capes are on the market for about $17,000 each, he reports.

Most farms raising the animals are doing so only for breeding purposes, awaiting the time when the

Clean Their Feet First
Visitors to the farm are required to rub their feet in an antiseptic sawdust before going near the chinchilla pens. Each pen is insulated and heated electrically.

The animals are vegetarians,
doting on black walnuts, raisins and certain parts of grain. Often they have to be forced to eat
"what's good for them," says Sawyer.

Affectionate, they seem to enjoy human companionship, but sometimes take a nip at persons who grow too familiar. They like to gnaw wood too well to be really good household pets, however.

Chinchilla fur is about an inch long, very fine, with a blue under-coat and a gray-black tip. From 120 to 140 pelts are necessary for one coat.

Sawyer now is constructing a large two-story "dormitory" intended to house 96 animals.

CLASS B CAGE TEAMS READY FOR TOURNNEY

County Championships To Be Determined First

BY FRITZ HOWELL
COLUMBUS, Feb. 14.—Close to 900 Class B Ohio High schools cease their "just for fun" basketball games this weekend and dash into the "lose and get out" county championship tournaments, first step on the long trail to the state title meet.

At least 10 of the minor league teams roared through the preliminary campaign without a blemish on their record, but the intensive tournament play is expected to take a heavy toll among the top-notchers as late-developing teams turn in the ever-present upsets.

The Class A quintets, which do not participate in the county title frays, will continue their regular schedules until the weekend of March 4, when the sectional frays are launched. The big league teams are without an unbeaten member with two weeks to go, the last two of the "clean" squads dropping out last week.

New Philadelphia, after winning 16 in a row to lead the list, lost a 29-25 thriller to Dover's scrappy squad, but came back a couple of nights later to whip Huntington, W. Va., 44-33 to stay on top with 17 wins and a single loss. Akron Ellet bowed to Akron Stow, 34-32, to end its winning streak at eight.

The New Phillys Quakers, runners-up to Newark for the state crown last year, which the Wildcats grabbed by a 28-27 margin, will lose the services of Swihart, their ace center, on the eve of the state tournament if they battle their way that far this year. The age limit will rule the star out of action.

Trailing by nine points at the start of the fourth period, the Motors tallied 20 points while holding Palestine to three to win going away. Palestine led at halftime, 16-12.

Gordy Scullion and Sam Drakulich paced the Salem offensive, Scullion collecting 13 points and Drakulich 12.

The Altohous Motors came from behind in the final quarter to spank the East Palestine Casa Lomas 37-29, at East Palestine last night.

170 STUDENTS HELPED BY NYA

County Schools Contribute To Education Of Needy Youngsters

ents of 21 per cent of the students aided were unemployed, and 12 per cent were on WPA rolls. Of the families concerned, about two-thirds included more than five persons.

Leonard Is Chairman

In explaining the operation of the student aid program, Rabe said that the National Youth Administration supplies the funds for the youth's wages, allocations being made to each participating school on the recommendation of a local school official, designated as County NYA chairman. The chairman for this county is H. C. Leonard of Lisbon.

Rabe pointed out that the high schools and colleges have divided up their money allotments so that as many students as possible will be aided. The National Youth Administration specifies that high school students may earn up to $6 a month for their part-time work. College and university undergraduates may earn, on the average, $15 a month, and graduate students $30 a month. In order to assist a greater number of students, however, most schools and colleges have divided up the work so that individual students are earning less than these amounts.

The student aid division of NYA in Ohio is a program of assistance to needy in-school youth. Another division, known as NYA work projects, provides part-time employment, work experience and vocational guidance to approximately 9,000 unemployed out-of-school youth in Ohio.

The list of schools in this county participating in student aid, the number of students, and the amount of funds follows:

High School	Employed	Monthly Pay
Salem	8	$ 47.70
Columbiana	6	36.00
Lisbon	30	103.48
East Liverpool	43	203.25
East Palestine	34	130.60
Fairfield	4	17.77
Leetonia	15	90.00
New Waterford	5	16.56
Salineville	13	36.00
Wellsville	12	55.58

SOLONS ACT ON BRICKER PLANS

Bills To Revamp Three Divisions Reach Legislature

Rep. Benjamin F. Reading (R-Lucas) introduced the rural "bone-dry" measure, regarded as the most restrictive liquor bill offered since repeal of prohibition.

What It Would Do

It would prohibit sale of either beer (3.2) or intoxicants within one block of a school or church, forbid employment of women in places where liquor is served, provide local option election in municipalities on sale of beer in addition to liquor options, prohibit sale of liquor at gasoline filling stations and forbid sale of beer to persons under 21 years.

Authoritative sources reported that dry forces planned originally to provide for county-wide local option elections but deferred this proposal. The present law restricts such elections to townships and city wards or precincts.

The highly-controversial parochial school issue apparently was scheduled for another hearing through introduction of bills which would give such schools equal benefits with public schools under the foundation program.

The "stick commissioner" law, enacted two years ago to enable Democrats to retain control over patronage by changing provisions for filling vacancies in county commissions, was slated for repeal.

Rep. J. Harry McGregor, house majority floor leader, offered a bill restoring the vacancy-filling power to the county probate judge, auditor and recorder. The 1937 law vested the appointive power in the remaining commissioners and county engineer.

The change was enacted when Democrats sought—successfully—to preserve patronage in Clark and Lawrence counties where the serious illness and subsequent death of Democratic commissioners threatened to overthrow the party's control.

City hospital at 10:30 a. m. today and died ten minutes later. She had been ill since Saturday. Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

URGES FINES BE PAID TO COUNTY

Municipal Court Proposal Introduced By Stephenson

within 72 hours after an accident while the other would make it a crime for anyone to solicit legal business.

Agitation against subversive elements was reflected in bills barring "un-American" groups from use of school buildings and their candidates for election ballots.

Bills to require incorporation of labor unions, to base on union officers any convicted of a felony and aliens and to set up strict qualifications for union officers were among those introduced affecting organized labor.

Renewed efforts to lower interest rates on small loans and to obtain state regulation over them were covered in a series of bills on this subject.

Crime Bills Listed

A fine of $500 or six months' imprisonment would be imposed on persons selling "numbers" game tickets while another crime bill would permit prosecutors to withhold from defendants all documentary evidence, including the accused's confession.

Bills to establish municipal courts in Lancaster, Parma and Troy and several measures to change municipal court houses in several other cities were introduced.

Enlargement of the jurisdiction of the Zanesville municipal court was proposed in a bill introduced by Rep. Ralph G. Marshall (R., Muskingum). The provisions were not included in the measure which carried the title only.

Complete overhauling of the Seubenville municipal court code was proposed in a bill introduced by Sen. Roy N. Merriman (R., Jefferson).

Features of Proposal

New features of the proposed code would require the judge to give all his time to the office; authorize nominations by 50 instead of 300 petitioners; prohibit justices of the peace from practicing within the city; restrict justices of the peace in territory in Steubenville township outside the City of Steubenville to two; authorize the judge to designate another attorney to act in his absence while ill or on vacation and authorize the judge to appoint an official stenographer.

Rep. Albert F. Stokes (R., Fairfield), who introduced the Lancaster municipal court bill, also proposed to convert all existing canal lands within the city, except that now controlled by the Chesapeake and Ohio railroad, to the City of Lancaster for any purpose it may choose.

A $50,000 national guard armory for Barberton was proposed in a bill offered in the house by Rep. Wilford B. Bixler (D., Summit).

A proposal to appropriate $37,000 for the purchase of the mound builders' cemetery at Ft. Ancient and acquisition of the prehistoric mound builders' exhibit, nearby, was offered in the house.

Rep. Marshall also introduced a bill providing a two-year moratorium on flood assessments in conservancy districts. The measure was introduced by title only and provided no details.

JAPANESE LAND ON HAINAN ISLE

U. S. Ship Stands By To Protect Lives of Americans, If Necessary

(By Associated Press)

HONGKONG, Feb. 14.—Japanese naval and aviation units landed at dawn today at Yulin, at the southernmost tip of Hainan, the Chinese island near British and French empire lifelines, whose preliminary occupation Friday brought French and British diplomatic inquiries about Japanese intentions.

(The United States destroyer John D. Edwards, with Capt. John T. G. Stapler, commander of the United States navy's South China patrol, aboard, arrived from Hongkong today at Hainan, North Hainan port, to investigate and, if necessary, to protect American lives and interests on Hainan.)

The landing placed the Japanese navy in a potential base 750 miles east of Luzon, the principal island of the Philippines.

An official statement said that by noon Japanese landing forces had penetrated 15 miles inland with a rapidity that indicated an apparent lack of Chinese resistance to the invaders' occupation of the Sama bay area — generally considered among the far east's potentially best although currently undeveloped deep water harbors.

The combined military and naval action resulting in the occupation Friday of the North Hainan ports gave the Japanese command of the southern approaches to the Chinese mainland, only 15 miles from the North Hainan coast.

(Hainan is about 200 miles from the Indo-China coast, and 300 miles from Hongkong, a British crown colony. In Tokyo, Foreign Minister Hachiro Arida asserted that the occupation of Hainan would not exceed military necessity and was done only to curb Chinese shipping.)

Neutral observers here professed to see little connection between the South Hainan landing and the campaign against China because the landing point is more than 200 sea miles from China proper.

Injuries Fatal

YOUNGSTOWN, Feb. 14.—Samuel Morrill, 80, died today of injuries suffered Saturday night when he was struck by an automobile.

Former Ohio Governors

Varied Interests Attract Former Buckeye State Executives

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is one in a series of stories on what former Ohio governors are doing now.)

(By Associated Press)

On the road to recovery from a gall bladder ailment which confined him to his home for several weeks recently, the former Ohio governor and erstwhile Cleveland Republican leader has abandoned at 61 all thought of ever returning to political wars.

"My time is my own now," explains the man who began selling newspapers when eight years old and quit school at 13 to work in the steel mills. "I'm enjoying it. If I stay away from politics people will leave me alone. That's the way I want it."

Little Political Evidence

Several score pictures and portraits in his small terminal tower office are the only outward evidence of a political past. Sitting behind an orderly desk from which he directs his insurance business, he declined firmly to discuss politics—past, present or future.

"I left all of that behind me when I went out of office," he said quietly.

Davis did recall with a chuckle, however, his successful race for mayor of Cleveland in 1933, observing:

"I guess I was the first Republican to carry the eighth ward which Mark Hanna said was made up only of ore docks and Democrats."

Davis was the son of a steel puddler, who served three terms in the Ohio general assembly and was the author of much labor legislation.

A depression ended Davis' job in the steel mill when he was 20 and he began working for a civil engineer, studying business courses at night. A few years later he headed his own firm, assisting independent telephone companies to build up their business.

Elected Treasurer

His political leadership began with election as Cleveland city treasurer in 1909. He was chosen mayor in 1915 and was re-elected for two successive terms. In 1920, he was chosen governor and for two years waged a bitter but successful campaign to reorganize the state government. Davis served a fourth term as mayor from 1933-

-1937.

Peyton Returned To Detroit Court

LISBON, Feb. 14.—Carl Peyton, formerly of East Liverpool, was returned to Detroit Monday by Michigan authorities where he will be given a hearing today in habeas corpus proceedings.

Peyton was lodged in the county jail Saturday to await action on a non-support indictment returned secretly by the January grand jury. Employed in an auto factory for several months, Peyton was arrested last week by the Detroit police at the request of Columbiana county authorities.

The prisoner's counsel asked for a court order releasing Peyton and notice of the hearing was served on the day officer in charge of the station where Peyton was held. The day man neglected to notify the night desk sergeant and when Columbiana county deputies called for him he was released.

Had local authorities declined to surrender the prisoner the Detroit officers might have faced contempt of court action.

MANGANESE AND GOLD COMPARED

We May Want To Trade If War Comes, Steel Chief Asserts

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Feb. 14.—The time might come, T. M. Girdler, the steel man predicted, when the United States would gladly give all the gold in Kentucky vaults for a pile of desperately needed manganese and chromium.

This "time," said the chairman of the Republic Steel corporation, would be war, and the American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers.

He explained that this country is either wholly or in part dependent on foreign countries for seven of the 12 important nonferrous metals used in making steel. The seven are chromium, nickel, manganese, cobalt, tungsten and vanadium.

Manganese enters widely into steel making and chromium is an essential of stainless steels. Girdler said the United States uses 40 per cent of the world's chromium but its own production is "negligible." It uses 20 per cent of the world's manganese but produces "very little."

"War brings no genuine prosperity to the steel industry," he declared. "Any temporary profits which may come from extreme activity of plants during a conflict such as the World War of no lasting benefit to the industry."

Girdler declared the mining industry is being throttled in many cases by ruinous taxes. He quoted a study showing that the tax collector takes 27 cents out of every dollar paid for Lake Superior iron ore delivered at lower Great Lakes ports. The tax, he said, is twice the actual cost of producing the ore.

Germany, Japan and Italy are spending six times as much for national defense as the United States, said Rear Admiral Clark H. Woodward.

The Berlin-Tokyo-Rome angle, he declared, spent six and seven-tenths billions in 1938. Germany's share was 4.4 billions, Japan's 1.8 and Italy's 5. The seven major powers spent 16 billions, Russia leading with 5.4.
